LADY SLIPPERS

(Cypripedium)

Our much loved hardy native orchids which have sprung into popular favor the last few years for naturalizing in woodlands and for use in the rockery.

They love a cool moist shaded spot with soil that has a good portion of leaf mold or peat mixed in. Once planted they need little or no attention, excepting to be watered during prolonged dry spells. A mulch of 2 or 3 inches of leaves is advisable during the winter which can be left on to rot in the spring; thus keeping up a constant supply of leaf-mold over the crowns. A very striking picture can be made by planting them in colonies among ferns using spectabilis in the rear, pubescens in the middle and acaule in the front.

Planting can be successfully done in fall or very early spring while the plants are dormant. Plant in colonies 6-8 inches apart.

Acaule. The plant sends out two leaves at the ground level from which the flower stalk grows 8 to 10 inches high. The slipper-like flowers appear in May and are pinkish-purple in color. The first Lady Slipper to bloom. Must be grown in deep shade and in acid soil. Each40c

Spectabilis (Showy Lady Slipper). The grandest of all the Lady Slippers and one of the rare plants as the supply is always short of the demand. The great leafy stems grow to a height of about two feet and bear two or more flowers which are rose-pink and white in color. A large colony of this variety in bloom among hardy ferns is a sight not soon to be forgotten. Each.....50c

Yellow Lady Slipper. The most widely planted of all hardy orchids and perhaps the easiest to grow. Does well in any partly shaded location that is moist. A beautiful thing to use along streams or beside pools in the rockery. The slipper-like flowers are a rich golden yellow with reddish-purple petals. Blooms in late May and June. Height 12 to 18 inches. Strong clumps. Each 30c, 4 for$1.00

Let me thank you very much for the lovely Phlox plants received yesterday. I have hesitated in ordering from so far away from home thinking the plants would suffer in transit, but they were so fresh and fine and I have never seen such roots. Be sure that I shall tell my friends about you and expect a larger order from me next time.

Hemerocallis

The Golden Day Lilies

Hemerocallis possess the characteristics of perfect perennials. They are perfectly hardy, easy of culture, free blooming, colorful, and have no insect enemies or diseases. Most varieties have a very pleasing fragrance. They can be planted in either spring, summer, or fall. By planting our strong sturdy plants this fall you can be assured of abundant bloom next summer. They will tolerate almost endless neglect, poor soil, and locations, but to have them at their best give them rich soil and do not let them suffer for want of water during dry periods. When planting give them about two feet of space to develop in.

By selecting the different varieties one may have Day Lilies in bloom from May to early September in colors from pale yellow to gold, apricot to orange to almost red.

Hybrid Lilacs

In our estimation no class of plants that we are familiar with have been improved to the extent that the common lilac has during the past twenty years. We now have gorgeous double lilacs in every color and shade but yellow. Good reds have been developed, fine blues as well as exquisite pink ones.

These new hybrid lilacs have the added advantage of not spreading from root suckers as the old common lilacs do. They also begin to bloom when very young and it is not unusual to see a plant not over knee high producing those magnificent fragrant spikes. Our plants are grown on their OWN ROOTS and at the prices offered constitute the greatest lilac bargains of the year.
